MUST HAVE MORE CARS FROM WEST

Maurice J. Sullivan, lieutenant governor, has taken up the matter of improving the train service by having more sleeping cars placed on the run between Sparks and Tonopah. Yesterday he wired the railroad commission and received the following answer: "Have taken up the matter of additional sleeping car accommodations on train No. 23 with the Southern Pacific company and Mr. Forster, who was here, hope to be able to have sixteen-section sleeper substituted for the present twelve-section which should take care of the present overflow with the understanding that additional sleeper shall be provided as soon as traffic justifies."

This message was signed by J. F. Shannhnessy. This morning's train brought in a batch of travelers who had been denied accommodations at any price. When Mr. Sullivan heard their statements today he wired the railroad commission that "forty passengers sat up and arrived, cold, dirty and disgusted." He protested against any further delay and insisted that the railroads give prompt attention to the complaint by adding another sleeper. The lieutenant governor also protested against pulling off the smoking car at Mina which left the Tonopah service too cramped for ordinary decency.

DETAILS PRESENTED BY THE FIVE ALLIES AND MINOR POWERS

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, May 7.—The official summary of the peace treaty delivered to the Germans at Versailles today was made public here by the committee of public information. In addition to the surties, afforded in the peace treaty, the president of the United States and other premier of Great Britain pledged themselves to propose to their senate and parliament respectively an engagement subject to approval of the council of the league of nations to come immediately to the assistance of France in case of an unprovoked attack by Germany.

The treaty is the longest ever drawn, comprising 80,000 words, in 15 main sections. This represents three and a half months of the combined labor of more than 1000 experts and deals with the questions affecting Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey only in so far as binding Germany to acceptance of the agreement with those of the former allies.

Lands to Be Ceded
Germany by the terms of the treaty renounces Alsace-Lorraine to France; accepts internationalization of the Saar basin temporarily, and Danzig permanently; agrees to territory changes toward Belgium, Denmark and East Prussia; cedes most of upper Silesia to Poland; Germany also renounces all territorial, political rights outside of Europe, as to her own or her allies' territories, and especially to Morocco, Egypt, Syria, Liberia and Shantung.

The treaty recognizes the total independence of German-Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland. The army must be reduced to 100,000. German conscription is abolished and all fortresses for 10 kilometers east of the Rhine razed.

Importation, exportation and mining of heavy metals and coal is stopped. Allied occupation of parts of Germany will continue until full repatriation is made. German violations of the conditions of the treaty east of the Rhine will be set at naught.

Navy Wiped Out
The navy is reduced to six battle ships, six light cruisers, twelve torpedo boats, without submarines in charge of a port in the Baltic. All other vessels must be scrapped or destroyed.

Germany is forbidden to build forts controlling the Baltic coast, to build submarines, to use the Kiel canal to all nations, and to possess all cables. The nation can have no military, naval or air force, except 100 men to detect mines, shore and sea.

There are various commissions to settle the treaty, check reparations, military, naval, air, financial and commercial commissions. An international high court and military tribunals are provided. The problems of laws on an equal basis and international trade, the league of nations in detail or in part for each international position.

CAUSE OF THE RISE IN CONSOL. VIRGINIA

Forest B. Caldwell, consulting engineer of the Divide Extension and president of Hurschler Divide has returned from Virginia City, where he went through the Consolidated Virginia and Ophir mines. He gave as his opinion the following which is based on official information as to causes:

"The Consolidated Virginia is breaking ore from six different and distinct places on the 2150, 2100, 2050 and 1950 levels, with an average value of over $23 per ton. This average does not take into account 25 cars of ore taken last Sunday from the 2150 level which sampled from $60 to $288 per ton (6 cars being of latter value and others around $1000 per ton).

"The old fire stop and bonanza area has been entered on the 1650 and 1750 levels for the first time since bonanza days, and work is being rushed toward the discovery of the bonanza left when the fire stopped work in the early '90s. The location of this stop is approximately known and the management expressed the belief that it would be found within a reasonable time. The stop is estimated to be 30 feet wide, of a value of $50 to $100 per ton.

"Not considering this bonanza," Mr. Caldwell says, "I believe from my experience that the Consolidated Virginia mines in Mexico, that many millions will be found."

"The Ophir produced from five working faces 280 tons of ore averaging better than $25 per ton, one stop on the 2000-foot level is breaking a 10-ton wagon of ore containing over $30, with increasing value. The probable future of this discovery is that it appears to be an old continuation of the rich ore body stopped in 1905-1906 when the stock went to $12 per share. Years and stop raise on the property, the stock has gone up 30 to 40 feet and is present breaking over $30 over the foot. This, the 2000-foot level, is the first mentioned stop and is virgin above the surface, the interesting feature of this find is that it appears to be the junction of the famous Hardy vein with Ophir vein. It is increasing both in width and value."

"Zeb Kendall, who with Herb Humphrey, controls the Consolidated Virginia and Ophir, admits that W. Carlisle and Maurice Scheraga, both prominent financially, have been elected to replace H. Zaddy and Kearney, resigned, in both the Ophir and the Consolidated Virginia. With this passing of the control from the hands of the stockholders, eyes to Mr. Whitman Symms, the able president and superintendent of Consolidated Virginia and Ophir, a chance to do something with the mines, a privilege he has never enjoyed."

"It is my belief that Mr. Symms will, within a short time, develop sufficient ore to warrant a material increase in the mining company's subsequent larger net profits. Two properties are approaching a dividend-paying period, which should increase with development."

Importation, exportation and mining of heavy metals and coal is stopped. Allied occupation of parts of Germany will continue until full repatriation is made. German violations of the conditions of the treaty east of the Rhine will be set at naught.
